

Prepare for Job Interviews Summary

The lesson emphasized how to make yourself understand what the job requires and what the employer is looking for. Also presented was an effective process on how to help you understand your strengths and weaknesses and how to prepare your supporting evidence to ensure that supporting stories are consistent and trustable. The lesson talked about how to connect your stories with the job you are being interviewed for. This exercise will boost your readiness and self-confidence because you will have already gone through what you will say before the interview. In summary, as long as you have done your homework, you will have a much easier time in the interview and will have more positive outcomes.